RECONDITIONED CARS.

Now and then we sacrifice a new car sale because we will not pay an excessive price for a used car. If we paid Smith too much we would have to get it back from Jones. That would be unfair—and we believe in fairness, even if it hurts.

Remember: A used car is only as good as the firm with which you deal.

THE EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

Prince of Wales Entertains Pressmen.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, July 27.
With a view to enlisting even stronger interest of the Press than already exists in respect of the British Empire Exhibition, the Prince of Wales, as President, entertained a small party, principally of representatives of the great newspapers, to lunch at Wembley.
His Royal Highness, in a speech, described the project as one of the highest Imperial importance. He emphasised that the Exhibition had a definite important purpose and was fully worthy of serious and continuous support, and, if it achieved the anticipated brilliant success, it might well mark a new era in Imperial trade. He gave a confident assurance that the organisation of the Exhibition was now on a sound basis and the Exhibition would be a great pageant in which the economic resources of all the territories and peoples of the Empire would be fully illustrated.
Lord Burnham, in a reply on behalf of the guests, said the Press recognized that the Empire Exhibition was not a business venture but a mighty Imperial ideal. The Exhibition would attract an unprecedented throng of Dominion people and the great Exhibition would be an embodiment of that ideal. He assured the Prince of the desire of the Press to make it the magnificent success His Royal Highness desired.

FIVE MILLION MARKS TO THE POUND.

Grave Situation in Germany.

London, July 27.
On London German marks reached five millions to the pound sterling, this being attributed to the enormous demand in Germany for foreign currencies. The working classes are converting all their money not immediately needed into dollars and sterling. On the contrary there is evidence that Germany's balances abroad are still considerable. America is in active trade with Germany, especially in cotton.

Berlin, July 27.
Big queues outside the provision stores are waiting to buy butter, potatoes and other foodstuffs, which are very scarce owing to the impossibility of the dealers buying goods from abroad in view of the collapse of the mark. The authorities regard the situation as most serious. A special session of the Town Council declared that unless the Government intervened, a storm would break out, and sent a deputation to Herr Cuno to demand remedial measures.

THE CONCESSIONS TO TURKEY.

Aga Khan's Message to Islam.

London, July 27.
A manifesto by the Aga Khan, the leader of the Indian Moslems, is being published throughout Islam, emphasising that the Lausanne Treaty reveals the earnest desire of Britain, France and the other Western Powers to be good friends with Turkey and Islam. It confers complete freedom on Turkey, the leading statesmen of which now wish to be on good terms with Britain and France. He is sure they will eagerly welcome the renewal of trade. Turkey is on the threshold of a new era. He urges Moslems to help the new State, which will assuredly become the brightest star in Islam.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN AMERICA.

Decrease in Wholesale Prices.

Washington, July 27.
The monthly statement issued by the Federal Reserve Board reports that production of basic commodities declined during June but employment did not decrease except in some New England manufacturing. Freight shipments were exceptionally large and the volume of trade was about the same as May and substantially larger than in June, 1922. Wholesale prices showed a decrease, the largest decline being four per cent in building materials.

COLLISION IN PUGET SOUND.

President Harding's Experience.

Seattle, July 27.
The transport Henderson, carrying President Harding and his party, rammed the United States destroyer Zeilin in Puget Sound in a fog. Both the Zeilin's engine rooms were flooded. Mr. Harding refused to proceed until all the crew of the Zeilin had been safely taken off. The Zeilin is leaking badly but the Henderson is undamaged.

THE ESCAPE OF THE "ISKUM".

Nome, July 27.
It is reported that Soviet officials had ordered the Hudson Bay Company's trading vessel Baychimo to prevent the Iskum escaping, but somebody aboard the Baychimo put the steering gear out of order and she grounded.
[As reported in an earlier cable, the crew of the American schooner Iskum, who were arrested on a charge of violating Soviet commercial law, overpowered their guards and escaped.]

DUTCH FIRST CHAMBER ELECTIONS.

Amsterdam, July 27.
The elections to the First Chamber, which have been carried out for the first time on the system of proportional representation have resulted as follows:—The Catholics elected sixteen, the Orthodox Protestants eight, the Christian Historicals seven, the Socialists eleven, the Liberty Union five, and the Liberal Democrats three, representatives, compared with twenty-one, fourteen, seven, three, one, and four, respectively, in the former Chamber.

THE KENYA INDIANS.

Indignant at Government's Decision.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, July 27.
The Government's decision on the Kenya question has aroused great indignation among the Indians, which is exemplified in a cable sent to the Government of India, by the Kenya Indian delegation in London, declaring that the decision is not acceptable on all points except segregation, involving the subjection of Indians to a permanent status of inferiority and violating their constitutional equality within the Empire. The delegation urges the recall of the Indian delegates to the Imperial Conference, the withdrawal of India from the Empire Exhibition, and all possible measures of retaliation.
Despite strong Government opposition, the Assembly passed a Bill, introduced by Doctor Gour, proposing reciprocal retaliation for the Kenya decision against Colonials, by regulating their entry into India. A motion by Sir William Hailey to circulate the Bill was rejected by 50 to 34 votes.

Simla, July 27.
The retaliatory measure urged by Unofficial members during a debate in the Council of State on the Kenya decision included the stopping of all emigration to the Colonies.

COUNTY CRICKET RESULTS.

Hendren's Fine Batting.

London, July 27.
At Leyton Middlesex beat Essex on the first innings. For Middlesex, in the first innings Mann scored 122 and Hendren 200, not out. For Essex, in the first innings, Douglas compiled 96 and Franklin 106.
Hampshire beat Surrey at Bournemouth on the first innings. For Surrey, Jardine in their first knock scored 127.
Derby beat Glamorgan by five wickets at Chesterfield.
Kent beat Sussex at Eastbourne by 58 runs.
Yorkshire at Bristol beat Gloucester by 18 runs. In their first innings Gloucester compiled only 95 Rhodes taking 7 for 15. For Yorkshire Norman Kilner scored 102. For Gloucester, in their second innings, Hamm and compiled 95.

TURKEY'S TRIUMPH.

American Inaction Criticised.

Williamstown (Mass.) July 27.
Mr. Morgenthau, former U. S. Ambassador to Turkey, opening the Institute of Politics, deplored the United States' failure to enter the Lausanne Conference except as an observer. He declared it was almost pitiful how "we Americans had to sit with hands tied though our eyes were allowed to see how the wily Turk triumphed." He urged the United States to assure its full duties as a World Power.

AMERICAN-OTTOMAN DEVELOPMENT.

Washington, July 27.
Copies of all the records and official documents relating to the Cister concession have been filed with the State Department by the Ottoman-American Development Company, the owners of the rights, who expect to start the preliminary work of development immediately.

SOVIET BOYCOTTS SWITZERLAND.

Warsaw, July 27.
The Soviet Government has refused passports to the delegates of the Russian Red Cross societies at Geneva, owing to the decision of the Soviet to boycott Switzerland owing to its attitude in connection with the Vorovsky murder.

THE WISDOM OF BEING PREPARED.

Seattle, July 27.
President Harding, speaking at the Seattle Press Club after reviewing the United States fleet, declared that until the nations abandoned the use of armed forces America must find her Assurance in a navy of the first rank.

NEW GUINEA ILL-TREATMENT ALLEGATIONS.

Melbourne, July 27.
The Commonwealth Government has appointed Mr. Canning, a former West Australian police magistrate, to investigate the allegations of ill-treatment of the Natives of former German New Guinea.

WARSAW-NEW YORK RADIO.

Warsaw, July 27.
The construction of a new wireless station, one of the most powerful in Europe, will be completed about August 15th, able directly to communicate with New York.

AUSTRALIAN LABOUR'S ATTITUDE.

Melbourne, July 27.
In the House of Representatives, the Labour leader, Mr. Charlton, outlined Labour's attitude at the Imperial Conference, and opposed the Singapore base.

DAVIS CUP COMPETITION.

New York, July 27.
In the Davis Cup Competition, opening rounds, Anderson (Australia) beat Dietrich (Hawaii) 6-1, 6-3, 6-3 and Hawkes (Australia) beat Ekland (Hawaii) 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

TYPHOON RESULTS.

A Number of Landslides.

Yesterday afternoon, the typhoon signal was lowered, and soon afterwards there was more activity on the harbour, although most of the vessels which had gone to shelter remained where they were until to-day. The Empress of Canada this morning again went to her wharf at Kowloon. She was due out this morning, but her departure has now been postponed until 4 p.m. to-day. The harbour was still very choppy during the afternoon yesterday, but at about 6.30 p.m. the ferry service was resumed.

In the hill district, a number of landslides have occurred as the result of the heavy rains. On the Peak, at Jardine's corner, there is a considerable subsidence, whilst the Magazine Gap cul-de-sac is also blocked by a fall of earth. In several places on the road from May Road to Magazine Gap there are also landslides, the entrance to one of the Eastern Extension on Telegraph Company's houses being blocked. A big tree opposite the Naval Yard has been uprooted, as also has another opposite Wellington Barracks.

Information from the Police Traffic Department states that Stubbs Road, between Barker Road and Mount Gough Police Station, is closed to motor traffic owing to the occurrence of a landslide this morning. On enquiry at the P.W.D. offices we learn that the landslide on the Stubbs Road is a rather serious one. It is at a point just above Barker Road. There have also been further landslides on the Magazine Gap and May Roads, blocking these thoroughfares. A retaining wall in Robinson Road has also collapsed, whilst there are several other subsidences, many private walls being damaged.

On enquiry at the Observatory, we are informed that the rainfall for the 24 hours ended at 10 a.m. to-day was 5.42 inches. For the previous 24 hours the fall was 1.21—a total of 6.63 inches.

We are asked to state that owing to typhoon damage, the public bathing beaches at Kennedy Town and North Point are closed. It is hoped to reopen them early next week.

KOWLOON TRAMWAYS.

Details of the New Service.

Particulars of the new Kowloon tramway service were obtained by a representative of the Telegraph from the Public Works Department this morning. Tenders for the running and maintaining of the service are being called for. The routes will be as follows:—
Commencing at the Star Ferry pier, where there will be a loop round the clock-shed shelter, the lines will run up Salisbury Road, then turn off along Nathan Road and Coronation Road, turning to the left up to Sham Shui Po. The length of this route being approximately two decimal eight miles.

Another route will be on through Salisbury Road and Chatham Road to a point somewhat beyond the junction with Gascoigne Road, where the reservoir is; a distance approximately of one decimal six miles.
A third route will commence just before the mortuary on Coronation Road, and branch off to the right along a new road running up to the Kowloon Tong (distance approximately one decimal six miles.)

Route number four will be along a new road at right angles to Coronation Road, from near its terminus, up to Kau Pui Shek (about one decimal seven miles).
A fifth route will be along Gascoigne Road, from Nathan Road to Chatham Road, approximately half a mile.

The final route will run from the reservoir at Chatham Road along an extension of this road way up to Matsu Wai village, about one mile in length.

The successful tenderer will have to pay Government an annual rent, being at least ten per cent. of the net revenue. The sum of $50,000 will have to be deposited with the Government.

Johnny Dundee,

who defeated Criqui for the world's featherweight championship.

Eugene Criqui,

on the signing of the agreement. The construction is to be completed by December 31st, 1925. The term will be for twenty-five years, determinable at the option of the Government at the end of the fifteenth or twentieth year, on six months' notice. The company is to operate a system and type of car approved by Government, who will provide all land required for the service.

"We have pleasure in announcing that Messrs. Alex. Ross and Co. have generously decided to present to the winner of any event in the forthcoming motor trials a complete set of Goodyear tyres and tubes for his motor car or motor cycle, provided that the machine in question uses Goodyear tyres exclusively."

The General Committee is to meet at the Telegraph offices on Monday at 5.30 p.m. in order to confirm the conditions of the contests arranged for August 25th and September 2nd.

STEAM LAUNCH SUNK.

No Loss of Life.

About half-past twelve yesterday while the steam launch Fai On was lying at anchor opposite the Kai Ping coal yard, inside the Yau-mat typhoon shelter, the strong wind and tide running at the time broke her anchor chain. The little vessel was dashed against the coal yard pier and sank in a very short time. Fortunately there was no loss of life and nobody was injured.

BRITISH AIRSHIP SCHEME.

London, July 27.

The revised airship scheme which the Government has adopted in principle provides for the preliminary construction at Bedford, of one five-million cubic feet airship as long as the Mauretania. The construction will be made by a company with six hundred thousand pounds capital of which the Government will provide four hundred thousand. A second similar loan will be conditional on the airship journeying to India in one hundred hours. A weekly service to India for three months will entitle the company to such a loan annually. A three years' Government subsidy of one quarter of a million pounds will be paid on the establishment of a bi-weekly service in which six ships will be engaged.

The construction of the first airship capable of carrying one hundred and fifty passengers and ten tons of mails and travelling at eighty miles an hour will occupy one year and a half. It is hoped to do the journey to India in seventy-four hours and the fare will be about £70 to £80 sterling. The airship is to be capable of non-stop journeys of 2,500 miles. The Government has reserved certain accommodation and is empowered to take over the whole fleet in case of military necessity. The capital of the Company will eventually be increased to three millions sterling.

WORLD'S FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

New York, July 27.

In the Dundee-Criqui fight for the world's featherweight championship each weighed 8st. 12lbs. Criqui was out-classed, Dundee winning every round.

The crowd of fifty thousand were constantly in uproar, a large part cheering the Frenchman, but Dundee's jumping-jack methods completely befuddled Criqui who received severe punishment. In the first round Dundee floored Criqui with a right to the jaw for a count of nine. He twice floored the Frenchman in the second round. Criqui fought gamely but poorly and was wild throughout, landing only a few good blows.

EMPIRE DEVELOPMENT.

London, July 27.

In the House of Commons debate on the Board of Trade estimates Sir A. Mond urged a more vigorous Empire development policy. He stressed the importance of the China market especially for the cotton trade and urged the Government to use its influence to secure more settled conditions in China.

Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame, in the course of his reply, said that the Secretary of State was working on Crown Colony development schemes and the Government firmly intended helping sound schemes.

IMPERIAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

London, July 27.

The Daily Telegraph in a leader criticises the Government for failing to provide special representation for Crown Colonies at the Imperial Economic Conference, and suggests the direct representation of groups of colonies. It urges the Government to reconsider the matter and to rectify the serious mistake in Imperial policy.

CANADA'S WELCOME TO PRES. HARDING.

Ottawa, July 27.

MILITARY HOSPITAL.

A Successful Concert.

By permission of the Officer Commanding, a highly successful concert was given on Thursday evening last at the Military Hospital to the patients, the Hospital staff, and a large number of guests. Commencing at 8 p.m., and lasting until 10.30, there was not a dull moment during the whole programme, every contributor being excellent in their various items.

Mr. L. C. Helliwell, who has a good baritone voice, opened the concert, "Glorious Devon" being particularly well sang. Mrs. Bruce, a lady who has recently arrived in Hongkong, and possessing a sweet soprano voice, sang four songs, each of which were most highly appreciated. There were two comedians, both of whom were excellent in their respective types. Lieut. Allcock, R.G.A., is capable of raising roars of laughter with his facial expression alone, and that, combined with his other gifts of comedy, he was encored again and again. Mr. C. Tuke was very happy in the choice of his numbers, and he is an artist of sufficient ability to give each of his songs a characteristic touch. "We really had a most delightful evening" brought down the house.

Mr. C. Olive, an actor impersonating Dickens characters, contributed five studies:—Uriah Heep, Fagin, Bill Sykes, Grandfather Trent, and Scrooge. The last character was made particularly effective by a choir of boys singing carols during the progress of this Dickens monologue. Mrs. Clements, a lady who is now well-known in the Colony, received an ovation on her first appearance. With a soprano voice of extreme beauty, the rendering of "Smilin' Thro'" was exquisite.

Mr. L. D. Martyn, of the Easna Club, with the aid of a "hat," held his audience in a continual state of merriment throughout his performance, and his methods of comedy were as novel as they were clever. Miss Conway and Mr. A. Spary accompanied at the piano most efficiently.

Major A. E. B. Jones, R.A.M.C., on the conclusion of the concert thanked the artists on behalf of the audience. The staff of the Military Hospital are to be congratulated on the excellent organization with which the whole arrangements for the concert were carried out, thus ensuring those who attended a really most delightful evening.

THE BALL GAME.

More Questions Answered.

QUESTIONS
One—If a batted ball first strikes foul, rolls a considerable distance in foul territory, and then settles on fair ground between home and third, is it fair or foul?

Two—What happens when a base runner is hit by a batted ball?

Three—If a fielder or catcher block a base runner without having the ball in his possession, and then touches the runner out before he can reach the base, what happens?

Four—With a runner on first, batsman hits a fly to the outfield which falls safe without being touched. The runner on first, fearing it will be caught, plays it safe and is thrown out at second. Does the batsman receive credit for a hit?

Five—Can a base runner after over running first base turn to the left in returning to that base?

ANSWERS

One—It is a fair ball if it finally settles on fair territory between home and third, despite the fact that it first hit foul.

Two—When a base runner is hit by a batted ball he is out. The batsman is entitled to first base. No other runners can advance unless forced to make room for the batsman.

Three—The runner is entitled to the base, which he was prevented from reaching by the obstruction of the fielder.

Four—The batsman does not receive credit for a hit. In no case shall a base hit be scored when a base runner is forced out by the play.

Five—A base runner can turn to the right or left without liability to be put out after over-running first base, provided he make no effort to advance toward second.

THE DANCING PRINCE.

The Prince of Wales has had an unexpected honour thrust upon him by a United States organization. He has been voted "the premier dancer of the world" by the National Institute for Social Dancing of New York which announces it has sent him a number of new steps, one named in his honour. Addressing the Prince,
the Institute, through its secretary,
says: "It is our unamin vote that your Royal Highness deserves first place among the dancers of the world by reason of which position we find it only befitting that your Royal Highness be the first to learn the steps."

CORRESPONDENCE.

(To the Editor of the "Hongkong Telegraph.")

Philippine Independence.

Sir,—Before replying to your correspondent, W. B. Watson, on Philippine Independence, I wish to comment on his assertion that I mutilated the King's English in my previous letter. Perhaps Mr. Watson can point out my grammatical shortcomings? I did not write the letter for his particular benefit, hence the absence of the King's English.

I also ignore the last paragraph of his correspondence. It savours of mud-slinging. I wish he would be more explicit and I challenge him to disclose which community
he was referring to when he says
"We have the spectacle here in Hongkong of the members of a foreign community making demands upon the Government for educational facilities toward which they contribute little or nothing."

Your correspondent also shows ignorance of what I previously wrote about the Chinese under "Philippine Independence." I mentioned "Peoples of the Far East." If Mr. Watson confines me to that category, can he tell me if a dog, born in a manger is a horse?

In my correspondence I specifically cited the Philosophy "The glory of creation consists in diversity in unity and unity in diversity." I also quoted Kipling to bear out my statement that the same form of government with effective application to certain races cannot be applied to every race of people. I mentioned that a Power administering government here is successful because,
while it follows the hard-and-fast rule, its control is firm yet kindly, looking after the improvement of the people's needs. Education, I maintain, is a hand-maiden of discipline. Mr.
Watson did not understand the gist of my letter, hence his criticisms are ridiculous per se.

Mr. Watson states—"Your correspondent seems to think that the advocacy of national independence by any dependent people is a crime." I did not make this inference; but is Mr. Watson, who pledges the cause of humanity in his letter, aware that the appropriation excoanded by the Treasury of the P.I. towards the recent Independence Commission to Washington can be better used to the salvation of many of the countless thousands of lepers in the little Island of Cullion; those straggling units of humanity for whom science has at last devised a cure? Here is humanity!

Your correspondent then elaborates on evolution, which is too great an undertaking. I agree, Mr. Watson, that we "can no more stop the progress of a people than we can stop an infant from growing up" as you say, but we can certainly strive to stop the retrocession of a people when that back-sliding is implied in a distortion of the word "Independence." I emphasize that independence from American rule can only culminate in confusion and the laying bare of Philippine territory to the invasion of other covetous powers. The Philippine Government, as you know, do not retain its independent Army or Navy.

In the second paragraph of his letter, Mr. Watson states that he has had the opportunity of studying, at first hand, the question of Philippine Independence. I do not presume to have done so, but I believe the Filipinos en masse do not advocate such an independence as yet.

Mr. Watson also comments on national aspirations. Inasmuch as aspiration belongs to the highest order of human intellect, yet aspirations detrimental to the interest of one's country and elevation of self cannot be deemed worthy. There are diverse categories of aspiration, Mr.
Watson.

Your correspondent, it reverts to the Portuguese Campaign of 1580 against Spain. Portuguese History, I am afraid, is too glorious for his understanding.
Answering his query I would say that the Portuguese were justified in embarking on that campaign because they were then not only capable of managing their own affairs at home, but their intrepid navigators who adorn the pages of Geographical History before that epoch already sailed forth to the discovery of new countries and perpetuated the capacity of the Portuguese for coping with the reins of colonial government. For instance the discovery of Brazil in 1500
by Pedro Alvares Cabral,
the Labrador by Jeronimo
Cortereal in 1501, Saint Helena

EDUCATION REPORT.

Further Points from Annual Report.

We take the following from the annual report of the Director of Education:—

Health of Children.

Inspections of British Scho Is are undertaken by officers of the Medical Department with the assistance of the Medical Officer of Health. The Kowloon Schools, Senior and Junior, and the Victoria School were each inspected once during the year. The report on the Kowloon School states—
"I was very much struck by the good physical condition and appearance of the children in the Senior School; they in my opinion compare quite favourably with the school children of the Pacific Coast of America of whom I saw a good deal whilst on leave. The smaller children in the Junior School seem to have a tendency to anaemia but seem to outgrow it as they get older." At the Victoria School, with the exception of trifling ailments, the health of the children was "excellent". No inspection of the Peak School was made.

University Examinations.

A table is given showing the successes in the University Matriculation and External Examinations. It is stated that except for a trifling reduction in Junior successes among the Schools outside the Colony, the figures for 1922 are all "records".
The most noticeable increase is in the Matriculation and Senior Successes of the Outside Schools, notably those of Shanghai. It is a matter of congratulation that in the past ten years over 800 students of the Colony should have passed the University Mat-riculation or Senior Local; but this year's figure 149 promises a great increase in the next decade.

The Diocesan Boys' School won
the King Edward Scholarship, and Queen's College the President's Scholarship.

There is a general feeling among the Heads of local schools that the Junior Examination is somewhat too easy.

by Joao de Nova in 1502, Madagascar by Tristao da Cunha in 1506. The latter also planted the banner of Portugal in the soil of the Ascension Islands in 1503.
Alveira also discovered Sumatra in the same year and the Portuguese are also credited with the discoveries of Borneo and Java in 1513. I can quote countless others.

In 1898, your correspondent
resumes, the United States Government established a school of modern political thought in the Philippines. The U. S.
Government has since established schools in the P.I. for all sorts of industrial and mental development until to-day schools and universities flourish in the Philippines as typhoons in Hongkong. You have seen the result of these "Halls of Enlightenment." The Philippines now have to combat this superfluous education. They have too many lawyers and doctors and no-one to till the land. The vagaries of these professional men are too lachrymose to contemplate.

Speaking again of education in the Philippines, has it never occurred to Mr. Watson, that while the U. S. Government expended large sums of money on all sorts of education in the P.I. yet they have never relished the feasibility of inaugurating a first-rate naval and military school there when no country can exist independently, without molestation unless they have an adequate army and Navy?

The only discrepancy in my original correspondence was that part relating to the abolition of European holidays in the Ayunta-mientos. But why attack the missionaries?

Your correspondent should have read "Political Economies" and acquire an understanding of what he means to criticize before essayng an expression.

Yours etc.

H. M. SILVA.

Hongkong, July 28th, 1923.

Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr.
H. M. Silva, certainly needs a great deal of sympathy in his aspirations to become a "politician," especially on such an intricate question as that of Philippine Independence. I would most strongly advise him to divert more of his attention to the political affairs of his own country, in which he could find more scope to achieve success, rather than delve into a subject of which he knows precious little.

Yours etc.

HONGKONG, 28th July, 1923

THE HONGKONG MEDICAL REPORT.

There are passages in the medical report for last year, which is signed by Dr. J. T. C. Johnson, the late P.C.M.O., that require more than ordinary notice. The report on the sanitary department of Hongkong, issued a few weeks ago, covered a great deal of ground which the medical report deals with, and the former paid particular attention to tuberculosis, one of the curses of this Colony. We shall therefore not touch further on that subject, which received due notice at the time. There are other aspects of local health work, however, about which the public will be interested to know more. It is often declared, for instance, that money should be spent freely on the fight against disease, so when we find that the amount sanctioned in the estimates for 1922 was $411,874 whilst the expenditure was only $371,782, and the department's revenue amounted to $164,000, there is cause to query a policy that appears to have aimed at economy. In a Colony with an estimated population of over 680,000, the expenditure was less than sixty cents a head. One thing we can see is that the medical service is certainly not handicapped by a want of funds, and it is pleasing to know, from the report under review that certain reforms are being set on foot.

Hongkong is obviously not a very healthy place in the ordinary way. Last year's death rate worked out at 25.47 per mille for Chinese and 20.46 for non-Chinese races. The infant mortality was heavy. Malaria, which can almost be eliminated by vigorous measures (and liberal expenditure where necessary) was more prevalent than usual, and probably this year's statistics will show no marked improvement, if any. Passing over typhoid (of which the public heard a great deal recently), small-pox, and dysentery (as the report states, a disease "often encountered"), we come to plague. This last-named disease has become more prevalent in the Colony—we trust only temporarily so. It is interesting to learn that, of the entire number of rats which were reported as infected during the period under review, only 15 per cent. were black rats whilst 84 per cent. were of the brown species, which latter is somewhat more numerous in the Colony. Among precautions taken, we learn, "ceilings and hollow walls are not allowed in new buildings, and in some instances in which they existed they were removed by order." Unfortunately, the abomination of lath and plaster double ceilings and hollow walls still exists to a great extent, among the older buildings in Hongkong. It is mentioned that rats probably enter the Colony by means of the shipping, especially in junks, and "at present it seems that to disinfect all junks periodically and kill the rats and fleas would require a large organisation for the purpose, as some four or five thousand junks would have to be dealt with." Dealing with ankylostomiasis, the report remarks that it is thought some 15 per cent. of the population of South China is infected with hookworms.

One menace to the community which is being tackled more vigorously now is venereal disease. Time was when the mere mention of the subject was taboo, but in recent years that false prudery has given place to helpful discussions and recommendations. The report for last year shows no diminution of this scourge. Dr. Johnson states:—"Although a free clinic for the treatment of all who are affected has not been established yet, a considerable amount of free treatment has been provided by Government." As we announced the other day, a free clinic is shortly to be established by the authorities, and it is to be hoped that this will merely be the commencement of an organised campaign. To the late P.C.M.O. we owe the first steps, for, as his report records, he has recommended a suitable site for a free clinic and a plan for the building, and has advised the appointment of an officer with special knowledge of this work. At the request of the Government, he submitted a memorandum last year on the steps necessary for carrying out the recommendations of the Venereal Diseases Committee appointed by the local authorities.

On the whole, Hongkong has a very efficient medical service, which does a great deal of good work. We have not the space to touch on all its activities, but might mention the excellent bacteriological research and preparation of vaccines, the systematic examination of our water supplies, the medical inspection of schools, and the training of Chinese midwives. We can feel secure in the knowledge that we have the right appliances, and the right men, to fall back upon for any demands that might be made by the progress of sanitary science.

Railway Problem.

It is apparent from the statement made to the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council on Thursday in regard to new capital expenditure on the Kowloon-Canton Railway that the arrangement between the British and Chinese sections is not working at all smoothly. In the first place, the Chinese administration is not supplying its full quota of rolling stock, and this means that we have to increase ours, with the result that our capital expenditure is materially increased. The mischief does not stop there, however, because the consequence of this is that roads are made upon our share of the through traffic takings; whereas the Chinese section benefits through its own failure to observe the conditions of the scheme, receiving its full share of traffic receipts but not incurring the capital expenditure which we do. More than that, there are not the facilities at Canton for handling goods on offer, and here, again, this punishes Hongkong. The fault, of course, is not with the Chinese railway administration, which is no doubt the victim of circumstances, but the matter is one of

CHINA ASSOCIATION'S VIEW.

Powers Should Reconsider Chinese Situation.

London, July 27. A meeting of the China Association, at which Sir John Jordan was elected president, unanimously passed a resolution, proposed by Mr. F. Anderson, the retiring president, and seconded by Mr. Burkill, chairman of the British Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai, urging the signatories of the Four Power Treaty at the Washington Conference to review the situation in China with a view to considering measures whereby China may be assisted to achieve national union, settled conditions and equilibrium; declaring that these objects may best be attained by enlarging the scope of a special conference which will be convened to consider the customs surtax and abolition of the likin; but if the circumstances prevent that body meeting soon, the four Powers should convene a special conference on the subject.—Reuter.

very considerable importance, all the same. Indeed, we hope that the situation is not to be left where it is, because present conditions are manifestly unfair to this Colony.

Need of Revision.

It would be interesting to know the precise extent to which the Chinese section has not fulfilled its obligations. Mr. Fletcher, in his statement, referred to the shortage as "considerable." To our way of thinking the circumstances call for a revision of the present arrangement between the two sections. Obviously, it is not equitable that the Chinese railway authorities should receive its full share of the through traffic receipts whilst it fails to provide its due quota of rolling stock. The respective percentages from the former source should bear some relation to the capital expenditure incurred. It may, as Mr. Fletcher says, be policy for us to build up our rolling stock against the day when peaceful conditions set in and he time when through communication will be possible to the Canton-Hankow Railway, even though both these desiderata seem still a long way off. That is our own affair. The conditions of the existing arrangement between the two sections, however, raise quite another matter, and it is surely right and proper that they should be looked into, with a view to revision on a more equitable basis.

There is no truth in the rumour that the first match to be played in the proposed Stadium will be between the Wongsichong Wanderers and the Queen's Road Rangers for the Capsumun Cup.

In view of the prevalence of week-end typhoons, these Government officials are to be congratulated on having a Saturday in the middle of the week.

RADIO NOTES AND NEWS.

Is the Vertical Antenna Best?

BROADCASTING STATION SET AT RIO JANEIRO, SET IN A LOW VALLEY BETWEEN TWO HILLS, SHOWING HOW THE VERTICAL CAGE ANTENNA IS HELD UP.

An instance of the efficiency of the vertical antenna is brought out in the case of station Spc at Rio Janeiro.

There, because of its peculiar location, in a low valley between two hills, this broadcasting station has had to resort to a vertical cage antenna, extending 500 feet in the air and held in place by a double cable stretching from hilltop to hilltop. It was installed in connection with the Brazilian exposition at Praia Vermelha and is being continued indefinitely.

The apparatus used at this station is a 500-watt Western Electric transmitting set. Yet this station has already been heard as far off as Honolulu, 8,000 miles away! That's the long distance record for 500 watt radio transmitters.

More startling than this even, is the fact that this station has been carrying on two-way radio conversations with Sao Paulo 225 miles off, and Buenos Aires, 1,100 miles to the south, in the heat of summer and in the daytime. That is just when radio transmission is most difficult and static disturbance most insidious.

Besides, the country is exceedingly mountainous and is covered with thick tropical growth which absorbs a great amount of the energy sent out between stations. Due to its location, this was the most difficult situation encountered by the radio engineers that erected the station.

Yet, the 500-watt transmitting set—the same used at the regular broadcasting stations without such hindrances in the United States—is able to reach into Honolulu, and to be heard 1100 miles off despite the heat of tropical summer, daytime and the natural obstructions of the surrounding country!

Is it the vertical cage antenna that makes this possible?

Better Broadcasting.

Another step was taken recently in London towards the improvement of broadcasting, when a new studio was opened at the premises of the British Broadcasting Company at Savoy-hill. The underlying principle in equipping it has been to eliminate echo within and sound from without. All the walls have been lined with six layers of sacking, weighing about five tons and representing some five miles of material, and the floor is covered with heavy felt and carpets. The microphone used is a great improvement upon those employed hitherto. It will receive the voice or instruments in any part of the studio, thus making it unnecessary to speak, sing, or play very near to it. Naturally, in a room so constituted there are difficulties of ventilation, but these, it is hoped, will be overcome. The main object which the engineer has had in view is to bring about the closest similarity between the actual voice or tone and the reproduction. It is claimed that success will follow this latest effort.

A privileged body was invited to view the studio on the occasion of its opening, and Lord Gainsford, chairman of the company, took the opportunity of addressing the thousands of listeners in throughout the country. In the course of his remarks he said the Broadcasting Company was not, in any sense of the word, a monopoly. The manufacturers of wireless apparatus met together by invitation of the Post Office last year, as it was realised that broadcasting would have to be controlled by one broadcasting authority if the chaos which was so obvious in America was to be avoided. It was also obvious that certain restrictions should be placed on the class of apparatus used in order that chaos, by the use of reaction at the receiving end, might be avoided. No body of commercial men were inclined to put up capital to start a new enterprise unless they were comparatively certain of some sort of return on it, and the dividend of the Broadcasting Company is limited to 7½ per cent; that is to be the maximum rate of interest on the capital invested, and is less than the interest with which the raising of commercial or industrial capital is normally attended. The conditions which have arisen as a result of so many people constructing their own sets were not foreseen, and two months ago negotiations were opened between the Post Office and themselves as to the issue of a new form of licence under which these people should continue to use their sets.

He wanted them to understand that, in addition to trying to protect their manufacturing members, they had never lost sight of the interests of the general public. They were not going to stop broadcasting. Broadcasting had come to stay, and no one need be afraid that the programmes would be discontinued. They had already made contracts for their London programme as far ahead as next December. In about six weeks the new Manchester and Birmingham stations would be operating, and the difficulty of securing artists, owing to the inaccessibility of the present stations, would be removed. In London their new accommodation would make possible programmes which were impossible before. For instance, that night they had the band of the Grenadier Guards, and contracts had been made with other famous military bands for the rest of this year.

Broadcasting at Sheffield.

For some time those interested in wireless telephony at Sheffield have been complaining of the facilities for receiving messages. Many of them consider that a station ought to have been established in the city itself, and are by no means satisfied with the fact that the nearest of these centres is at Manchester. Now, however, an improvement is promised. Captain P. P. Eckersley, the chief radio engineer of the British Broadcasting Company, has been investigating the local conditions, and he is so satisfied that the complaints are justified that it is proposed to establish a relay station in or near Sheffield in the course of a month or so. The transmission from, say, London will be picked up at some point outside Sheffield by wireless, and a land wire will connect the wireless receiving station with the transmitting station. The strength of the signals as received in Sheffield will be amplified several hundred times, and the effect will be that listeners in will be able to obtain satisfactory results from the use of the cheaper crystal sets instead of the one, two, or three valve sets now needed. The University has undertaken to place its resources at the disposal of the company in order to facilitate the experiment and enable it to be put into operation at the earliest moment.

BRITISH MOTOR NOTES.

By the R. A. C. Correspondent.

The following motor notes, by the R.A.C. correspondent have been kindly supplied us by the Hongkong Automobile Association:—

An Interesting Appointment.

The name of Starley, though well-known in the motor industry is perhaps even better known to the older generation of pedal cyclists, who realise how much they have been indebted to the Starley of their days. Consequently there are many who will be very interested to learn that Mr. J. K. ("Jack") Starley has recently taken the position of Managing Director of the Rover Company of which his father was the founder. Mr. Starley has been for thirty years in the service of the firm and is one of the most popular figures in the motor industry.

Improved Export Trade.

Mr. Starley has, by the way, shown me some very conclusive documentary proof of the suitability of the 8 h.p. air-cooled Rover for use in tropical as well as in cooler countries. The point is one worth mentioning, because of the doubts sometimes expressed as to the efficiency of air cooling under extreme conditions. Correspondents in India and Africa record petrol consumption well over forty miles per gallon with the 8 h.p. Rover and one user in India claims to have achieved the remarkable average of 58 miles per gallon at about 25 miles an hour. The Overseas model of the 8 horse Rover has specially low gear ratios if required, and the ground clearance is somewhat increased.

Messrs. A.J.S. report much improved export trade in A.J.S. motor cycles, with the exception that European trade is still somewhat stagnant. Even in Europe, however, things are improving. A contract for over 200 A.J.S. motor cycles for Italy has recently come through and business is also brisk in Switzerland.

In a previous note I referred to the policy of the Austin Motor Company of delivering their cars at the principal ports in the Empire Overseas at prices corresponding closely to those prevailing in England. This policy is proving highly successful and consequently the firm's export selling organisation has been extended to apply the same policy to all the markets of the world.

Proofs of Durability.

Exceptional durability has always been one of the chief claims of the British engineering industry and I propose from time to time to give a few well authenticated examples to prove the justification of this claim, so far as motor manufacturers are concerned. Looking through some letters addressed to the Sunbeam Motor Car Company, I find that there are many examples of Sunbeam cars still running which were purchased more than 10 years ago and have records of over 100,000 miles to their credit.

Even in the more modest sphere of the pedal bicycle, I have lately come across an instance in which a Swift light roadster purchased in 1897 is still running, having covered over 125,000 miles on British and European roads. It has never been off the road for anything worse than the replacement of chain saddle leather and pedal rubbers.

Substantial commercial vehicles would naturally be expected to show bigger mileage records than the lighter products, but nevertheless the performance of two Karrier vans owned by the well known publishers, Messrs. Wyman, is somewhat remarkable. Both vehicles have been in use for over 10 years and both have covered over 225,000 miles. The larger, a 2 tonner, has cost in all about £237 for repairs, overhauls and replacements. The record of the lighter vehicle, built for a 30 cwt. load, is even more remarkable. In 10 years the total cost of repairs, overhauls and replacements has amounted to no more than £100, or something less than one-eighth of a penny for every mile run. Also the proper allowance for depreciation of this vehicle is shown to be no more than a half-penny a mile, whereas the allowance usually made for a machine of this size is more like 1½d. or 2d. a mile.

The County Surveyor of Bedfordshire has issued a report containing working costs of six Commer Car lorries, three of which have been in service for over ten years. The fleet covers about 30,000 miles in the year at an average cost per ton mile of a little over five pence. The loads carried have consisted mainly of road materials and the work has been largely over unmade roads and those in course of construction.

Some of the Latest American Literature.

Booth Tarkington certainly needs no introduction to English readers, who will welcome his latest book, a volume of short stories collected under the title of the principal one, "The Fascinating Stranger." In almost every story in the volume Mr. Tarkington evolves a whimsical, humorous tale from some form of mental aberration. Thus in the title story we find Mr. Tuttle, who makes his home in a deserted limousine body and gains influence through trading a stolen lawnmower for a package of cigarettes, 78 cents and a diamond ring he thought worthless. In another tale a young man is so upset by witnessing the Folies Bergeres that he was placed in a sanitarium for 6 years. When he returned to the world he could not account for the passage of time. His little niece appeared to have reached maturity overnight. She "threw a toddle" and the modern form of entertainment unbalanced his reason again. These stories have appeared in various magazines. They do not form as substantial a contribution as Mr. Tarkington has made to literature heretofore, but they make excellent reading.

"Impromptu" is the title of a new novel by Elliot H. Paul. Irwin Atwood is the central figure in "Impromptu." His boyhood is spent in a New England town as bleak and provincial as Gopher Prairie. He is a burden to his mother. He is ever engaged in some petty dishonesty. Swept up in the war, one looks for some ennobling trait to develop, but it never does. To the very end he is a craven coward. He steals small sums from his mother. He takes his buddy's life belt when he thinks his transport is about to sink. He complains of every petty task that falls to his lot in the army. He returns and sponges on a kindly employer.

Atwood meets Dorothy, the girl he left behind him when he enlisted. He had left her in a sorry predicament, but others had cared for her. When Atwood meets her again she is earning her livelihood in a manner generally considered unconventional, not to say immoral. He accepts money from her.

A professional dancer sees them at a Boston dancing pavilion. He offers them a place in New York. Dorothy's invalid sister is a burden that cannot be carried along. Atwood plans to murder her. He believes he causes her death when she collapses and dies. Here-enlists in the army.

When Mr. Paul wrote this story he evidently pledged himself to the truth. But he often tells the truth uncouthly. He talks like a rough-neck. He goes too much into details regarding human functions. The ugliness lies in trivialities not essential to the story. That sort of thing constitutes posing.

True Tales of the Secret Service.

Nothing makes such interesting reading matter as life itself. Fiction is only entertaining when it either approximates or parallels fact. The old saw, "Truth is stranger than fiction," is true. Thus "True Adventures of the Secret Service," by Major O. E. Russell, is as inspiring an adventure tale as has been printed in months. We have no doubt that at times the truth is aberrated by the writer's imagination. All of the facts do not come to him at first hand and when he fills in the ground does not seem solid enough for the structure of fact the author erects. Fictitious names are given real characters. In several of the stories the names Lupin and Le Blanc are used. It may be only a coincidental matter, but it so happens that Le Blanc wrote the Arsene Lupin detective stories. The flavour of those stories and the style of writing is evident in Major Russell's work.

By far the most engaging of the stories are the first two which concern the capture and escape of Prince Joachim, late son of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm.

A Swiss Red Cross worker, named Freytag, was stationed at New Rochelle, France. He worked among German prisoners of war. A number of fires at that point endangered A. E. F. supplies at a time when their loss would have marked a turning point in the war. Members of the army secret service discovered that Freytag gave the prisoners acids to disinfect their clothes. When they took off their blouses to work, another acid in a bottle in the blouse would eat through the paper stoppers. When the two acids combined the fire was started. Execution of Freytag was delayed because of the frantic offers of trades made by the Germans to effect his release.

In May, 1918, Marshal Foch told the allied commanders that success of the cause depended on gaining information concerning plans of the German High Command. Secret services of other allied countries had failed. The discredited American secret service was the last resort.

A major of the secret service force was arrested at Hendaye, a town near the Spanish border. After news of the arrest had been noised about, he escaped into Spain. He arrived in San Sebastian, seat of the Group of Five that ruled German interests in Spain, and succeeded in gaining their confidence. He drank to the health of the Kaiser and the success of the German arms. He took the oath of allegiance to the Fatherland and signed it in his own blood. Then he was assigned to return to France and effect the escape of Freytag, who was with Prince Joachim. He did this and also brought back another officer, posing as a traitor, who declared he had the blueprints of the Liberty motor. These two men with Prince Joachim were carried to Kiel on a German submarine and eventually reached the High Command at Coblenz, where they were to tell of allied plans and explain the Liberty motor blueprints. The Germans planned to murder them when this information had been given. Two women in the German secret service had been assigned to shadow the Americans. In the end they fell in love with the American officers. The women arranged for two traitorous colonels of the German headquarters staff to accompany the Americans to the front line where they sneaked over No Man's Land and delivered to the allied command what details they had learned of the German strategy and troop distribution. The retreat of the Germans, which followed ended the war.

The two traitorous Germans were promised immunity. They were sent to the United States on the transport Agamemnon. Prince Joachim committed suicide. The American officers who were the heroes of the adventure believe that he killed himself because he realized he was the means of the American secret service reaching the High Command. And the two women who, all too human, fell in love with the enemy and betrayed their country? Their fate is not mentioned. Here again the fate of empire, of several empires, hinged on the sentiment, or emotion, or caprice—call it what you will—of woman, or so we are told.

An Author From Borneo. Every great fiction writer draws largely in connection with his work, on his own experience. Edmund Snell, author of "The Yellow Seven," had led a life full of thrills, so no doubt it is natural that his stories, too, should be full of them.

As a young man, Mr. Snell went from England to British North Borneo, as assistant on a rubber estate, and it was in this far away land, the home of adventure, the weird, that he absorbed the vividness characteristic of his writings. Borneo is the home of the headhunter. As if this weren't enough, the island settlements swarm with immigrants from mysterious China, which authors love to depict as the terrible, the inscrutable.

Such occurrences as the burning by refractory natives, of the manager's bungalow on the estate where he was employed were mere incidents in Mr. Snell's life in this wilderness. He recalls only as a rather unimportant happening a riot in the coolie lines, during which he had quite a serious argument with a malicious Chinese armed with an axe. That the Mongolian had a pig-tail which he managed to grab before the latter got him with his weapon, Mr. Snell mentions only casually when asked how the discussion terminated.

The author was born in London in 1889. He turned to literature early, having produced a play at the age of 13, while attending the grammar school at Ashford, Kent, where his uncle was headmaster. The youthful dramatist seems to have liked excitement and action even then, for it appears that most of the principal characters in this early drama were murdered. When he was 16 young Edmund found employment in a London office. He was still ambitious to shine as a writer and at the age of 17 actually succeeded in selling two stories to a publication known as "Boys' Life," which failed almost immediately afterwards.

Then came Borneo. Back in England a few years later, Snell found himself, as he confesses, a trifle out of touch with events in the home country. Finally he drifted into "caudeville" in a sketch entitled "Navy Blue." As the villain in this playlet, it was his duty, at the proper time, to be vanquished in a fist fight with the hero. One unfortunate evening, however, by an anything but lucky fluke, it chanced that he k.o'd the latter, and if the war hadn't broken out just at that time, he doesn't know just where he'd have looked next for means to maintain himself. Enlisting immediately in the Royal Artillery, he fought throughout the entire conflict. Having seen the worst of everything in Flanders, he was serving on the Italian front where, in 1917, he won his way to a commission.

In 1919 he became a railroad transport officer, first at Voghera, Italy, and later at the French frontier town of Modane. Demobilized in 1920, he opened what he called a "diplomatic travel bureau" and a movie theatre. The former, he relates, "died a natural death" and the latter "failed ignominiously." Nothing was left to him but to begin writing for a living.

As an author, his earlier ventures had discouraged him pretty effectively, but now, to his unbounded astonishment, he succeeded immediately. His work "took" at once with English magazines and shortly thereafter began to be a call for it from America. It was as a short story writer that he made his start, and "The Yellow Seven" is his first venture into the field of longer fiction. Mr. Snell is "the kind of novelist who wastes no time 'getting into' his story. He bothers with no preliminary explanations. The narrative carries them. 'Action' is his motto, from start to finish. His field is altogether a new one. His style has a freshness and interest. He knows what he wants to say and he takes the shortest cuts to say it. If 'The Yellow Seven' is to be taken as a sample of what he has to come after it, Edmund Snell is a made fiction writer, perhaps, after all, only because the reading public like colourful fiction dealing with Orientals, however inaccurate or exaggerated.

FIEUZAL GLASSES.

Out of doors there is nothing so restful and comfortable for the eyes as the light reflected from green fields and trees—the absorption of the ultra-violet and orange rays by the chlorophyll of the leaves; hence the introduction of Fieuzal Glass, yellowish green in colour, which is produced in several shades, and lenses made of this may be worn as a protection by over-sensitive eyes where it is desirable to tone down excessive light and glare. Fieuzal lenses of any prescription in either regular or Torio form are manufactured by The Hongkong Optical Co., successors to Clark & Co., manufacturing and refracting opticians, 53, Queen's Road Central.

NEW FIGHTING PLANE.

Faster Than Any Now in Use.

A new fighting aeroplane believed to be far in advance of any similar craft in the world, is now at the Air Ministry's testing aerodrome at Martlesham Heath, ready to undergo flying trials. It is named the Vixen, and has been constructed by Messrs. Vickers in response to the demand for a new air fighter that will become the standard for the Royal Air Force.

The Vixen is a two-seater machine, fitted with a single Napier Lion engine, and even fully equipped with crew and armaments is expected to be capable of a speed of at least 150 miles an hour. This is some 30 or 40 miles faster than any fighting machine now in use.

The fuselage is armoured to reduce to a minimum the risk of damage by anti-aircraft fire or machine-gunning by enemy planes. Machine-guns, fired by means of the revolutions of the engine, will be fitted for the use of the pilot, and there will be similar offensive and defensive weapons for the observer.

It can be used either as a scout machine, operating on its own, or as an escort for bombing planes. If adopted by the Air Ministry, the Vixen will be ordered on a considerable scale to replace obsolete craft and equip the new additional air squadrons that have been sanctioned.

OLD CHINESE WALL PAPER.

A unique wall paper, a present from a Chinese Ambassador to the Ashburnham family, has been purchased for the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington.

It is 150 years old, there is only another example of it in the world. The paper is very thick, and cream in colour, and is covered with scenes depicting Chinese tea plantation life, all hand-painted. It comes from the drawing-room at Sherfield Park, in Frant, Sussex, at one time the property of Lord Ashburnham.

The only similar paper in the world is in the possession of Countess Bank, and was a gift to the original founder of that institution.

BANK BUILDING COLLAPSES.

News of what was feared to be a big disaster in America was received in London last month.

A Central News message from Washington stated—The Franklin National Bank Building collapsed here in the afternoon. Many people have been killed and injured.

The Franklin National Bank buildings are situated in the heart of the City, not far from the Franklin Square. They are one of the most important commercial buildings in the city, and built on the steel-girder system.

It is several stories high, but not what is termed a "skyscraper," as the building restrictions in Washington forbid the erection of the immense structures peculiar to cities like New York.

S. C. A's REPORT.

Some Facts and Figures.
One of the papers tabled at yesterday's Legislative Council was the report for 1922 of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax.

The number of persons detained under warrant and sent direct to the Po Leung Kuk during the year was 26 as compared with 86 in 1921. The number of women whose detention was found unnecessary and who were allowed to leave after investigation was 13 as compared with 57 in 1921.

In this year no name was added to the list of girls under bond to report themselves periodically to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs. The name of one girl who was married, was struck off the list. The number of names on the list on December 31st was 9.

The number of persons reported by Hongkong residents to the Po Leung Kuk as missing during the year was 82, of whom 17 were found, as compared with 66 and 20 in 1921. The total number of persons reported missing, including reports from China and Macao, was 96, of whom 18 were found, as compared with 24 out of 99 in 1921.

The figures for the year show a decline in the number of assisted emigrants, which was only about one third of the number in 1921.

More Deceits.

Owing to the general trade depression the number of deceptions, repatriated from the various countries touched by the emigration trade, has greatly increased. As the available space in the Tung Wa Hospital is limited arrangements have been made with the Police Department to assist in dealing with the larger parties.

The number of marriages solemnised during the year was 169 as compared with 165 in 1921. The number contracted at the Registrar's Office was 31. In 1921 it was 29.

Six certificates were issued to Chinese to enter the United States of America (the figure was 17 in 1921), and no certificates to enter the Philippine Islands were issued as against 2 in 1921. These certificates are limited to Chinese British subjects resident in Hongkong.

In the absence of any other hospital in Kowloon the Kwong Wa does much work—all cases from the Police and the Docks for instance are treated here—which perhaps falls outside the limits of a Chinese charity.
